

Mr. Guinan's

DAILY BUGLE®

Happy Friday!

This was a pretty easy-going week without too much to note. Below are some announcements, and let me know if you have any questions.

Important Announcements:

- Grades for the Unit 4 Assessment will go home on Wednesday.
- There's no school on Monday or Tuesday.
- Ms. Bate posted the quiz grade for Science on the Science Google Classroom for students to see.
- Homework club will take place after school on Wednesday. Anyone is welcome to come!

Enjoy your weekend!

A brief overview of each subject:

Writing: The first Argument Essay is done! Next week, students will choose their second topic from a topic bank. As with the first essay, the process will be deliberately paced: a few days for research, and then drafting each paragraph one at a time.

Social Studies: Our Immigration Unit will continue; this past week, we talked about the passage. Next week, we'll be studying the process at Ellis Island.

Math: Students took the Unit 4 Final Assessment, and next week we begin Unit 5, which focuses on the four operations (addition, subtraction, multiplication, division) on a more complex level.

Classroom News

This week we have a 5 day weekend. Tonight it will rain into tomorrow so the skiing conditions won't be good. This week on Wednesday we got our class photo. On Thursday we might go outside for extra recess. But only the kids that can go outside are the kids who finished all of their work.
