

Mr. Guinan's

DAILY BUGLE®

Happy Friday!

Important Announcements:

The New York trip was a lot of fun! We were able to thoroughly explore Ellis Island and Liberty Island, including going up to the Statue of Liberty's pedestal. All the students did a great job being aware of their surroundings, and taking an interest in all there was to explore. (Especially the gift shop...)

Important Announcements:

- Our trip to Region 7 is on Wednesday. If you haven't already sent in your child's permission slip, please do so as soon as possible.
- White Memorial permission slips were due today.
- Writing grades for the second argument writing piece were sent home this week.
- Some students received their WWI test grade; some had to make quick corrections, and they'll get it back next week.

Enjoy your weekend!

A brief overview of each subject:

Writing: Students have begun outlining their second literary essay, and they will finish the outline next week. They will also start drafting.

Social Studies: We'll be discussing the causes of WWII, and the countries that comprised the Allies and Axis Powers.

Math: Work with exponents in Unit 6 will continue, with the goal be to take the final assessment before White Memorial.

Classroom News

We had a great time in New York! We saw Ellis Island, and the statue of liberty. Someone even threw a paper airplane off the statue's pedestal, it was so funny! And maybe a little embarrassing.....
